

Contributors

Drs. Redmer Alma studied mathematics and history in Groningen and now works for the Drents Archief. (Drents Archief, P.O. Box 595, 9400 AN Assen, The Netherland – redmer.alma@drentsarchief.nl)

Dr. Hanno Brand is head of the History and Literature Department at the Fryske Akademy in Leeuwarden. His research concerns the relations between the Northern Netherlands and the Hanseatic League, royal courts, urban elites and social-economic aspects of urban history. He focuses on subjects as the builders of Frisian regional identity (e.g. the Frisian Nassaus), on Frisian maritime history and on Frisian elites in town and rural areas. (Fryske Akademy, Doelestraat 8, 8911 DX Leeuwarden, The Netherlands – hbrand@fryske-akademy.nl)

Drs. Sebastiaan Derks is a researcher at the Huygens Institute for the History of the Netherlands and editor of its online Bibliography of Netherlands History. He is preparing a dissertation on the dynastic politics of Margarita of Austria, Duchess of Parma and Piacenza, during her regency in the Netherlands. (Huygens ING, P.O. Box 90754, 2509 LT The Hague, The Netherlands – sebastiaan.derks@huygens.knaw.nl)

Dr. Conrad Gietman studied early modern history at Utrecht University. Currently, he is working as a researcher at the Dutch Supreme Council of Nobility and as an editor at the Centraal Bureau voor Genealogie in The Hague. His dissertation Republiek van adel. Eer in de Oost-Nederlandse adelscultuur (1555-1702) was published in 2010. (Hoge Raad van Adel, Nassaulaan 2-b, 2514 JS Den Haag, The Netherlands – gietman@hogeraadvanadel.nl)

Dr. Dina Gusejnova is a Leverhulme research fellow at the Department of History, University College London. She received her PhD from the University of Cambridge in 2009. Her research focuses on modern German intellectual, social and political history, political theory, and modern Russian thought. At present, she is completing a study which analyses the political thought of German-speaking writers of noble descent after the abolition of the nobility in Central and Eastern Europe. (University College London, Department of History, 24-25 Gordon Square, London WC1H 0AG, United Kingdom – d.gusejnova@ucl.ac.uk)

Dr. Kees Kuiken is a historian and a sinologist. His main interests are memorial culture, mobility, and mentalities. His recent publications include prosopographical surveys of late medieval Dutch noblewomen and noble bastards, biographical articles (www.historici.nl), and a handbook of ancestral research for Dutch Chinese. (Emdaborg 29, 9751 SH Haren, The Netherlands; www.prosopo.nl)

Prof. dr. Yme Kuiper is professor of Historical Anthropology and Anthropology of Religion at the University of Groningen. (University of Groningen, Oude Boteringestraat 38, 9712 GK Groningen, The Netherlands – y.b.kuiper@rug.nl)

Prof. dr. Rob van der Laarse is Professor of War Heritage and Memory at VU University Amsterdam and Associate Professor in Culture and Heritage Studies at the department of the University of Amsterdam. His research focuses on (early) modern European elite cultures, cultural landscape, heritage and identity politics, and the intellectual roots and postwar memory of the Holocaust. (Universiteit van Amsterdam, Oude Turfmarkt 14, 11012 GC Amsterdam, The Netherlands – r.vanderlaarse@uva.nl)

Froukje van der Meulen studied Art History and holds Master's degrees in Architectural History (Universiteit Utrecht) and Heritage Studies (Universiteit van Amsterdam). Her research focuses on the twentieth-century history of Dutch and English castles and country houses with emphasis on the Second World War era. In London, she worked as a research associate on behalf of the National Trust. Currently, she works at Matrijs Historical Publishers in Utrecht and is an editor at Post Planjer magazine. (Lange Nieuwstraat 12, 3512 PH Utrecht, The Netherlands – froukjevdmeulen@gmail.com)

Aleid van Poelgeest is a genealogist. With a small group of dedicated colleagues, she has transcribed and analysed thousands of medieval charters and registers in archives in the province of South Holland. She has published in several genealogical journals. Her transcriptions are available in the Regional Archives at Leiden and Alphen. (Apt 123, De Ziel 86, 9451 CT Rolde, The Netherlands)

Dr. Hanneke Ronnes is lecturer in the department of European cultural history and coordinator of the master Heritage Studies at the University of Amsterdam. She studied social and economic history, cultural anthropology and post-medieval archaeology in Amsterdam and Dublin. Her PhD thesis Architecture and Élite Culture in the United Provinces, England and Ireland, 1500-1700 was published by Amsterdam University Press in 2006. (Universiteit van Amsterdam, Oude Turfmarkt 147, 1012 GC Amsterdam, The Netherlands – H.Ronnes@UvA.nl)

Dr. Ben Schoenmaker is a researcher at the Netherlands Institute of Military History and professor (endowed chair) of military history at Leiden University. (Netherlands Institute of Military History, PO Box 90701, 2509 LS The Hague, The Netherlands – B.Schoenmaker@mindef.nl)

Dr. Vincent Sleebe studied socio-economic history in Nijmegen and took his PhD degree at the Rijksuniversiteit Groningen with a thesis on social control and criminality in nineteenth-century Groningen. He was also involved in various urban histories. Currently, he is relation manager at the Historisch Centrum Overijssel, Zwolle, and works as a freelance historian. (Historisch Centrum Overijssel, Eikenstraat 20, 8021 WX Zwolle, The Netherlands – vsleebe@historischcentrumoverijssel.nl)

Dr. Arie van Steensel is a Marie Curie fellow at the European University Institute, Florence. He is the author of Edelen in Zeeland. Macht, rijkdom en status in een laatmiddeleeuwse samenleving (Hilversum, 2010). (Department of History and Civilization, European University Institute, Via Boccaccio 121 I-50133 Firenze, Italy – arie.vansteensel@eui.eu)

Prof. dr. Jon Stobart is Professor in History at the University of Northampton. His research has focused on the role of space in structuring historical processes and social practices, from industrialisation to shopping. His current research projects include 'Consumption and the Country House, c.1730-1800'. (The University of Northampton, Avenue Campus, St George's Avenue, Northampton NN2 6JD, United Kingdom – jon.stobart@northampton.ac.uk)

Dr. Marja Vuorinen holds a doctoral degree in social sciences and is a researcher and part-time teacher at the Department of Political and Economic Studies, University of Helsinki, Finland. Her interests include the history of elites, power relations, political and cultural conflicts and enemy images of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. (University of Helsinki, Department of Social Science History - P.O. Box 54 - FI-00014, Helsinki, Finland – marja.vuorinen@helsinki.fi)

VIRTUS 18 (2011)

Dr. Sibbe Jan Visser is a freelance (church-)historian. He graduated in cultural sciences at the Open University and in theology at the University of Groningen, where he also received his PhD in 2011. His thesis consists of an intellectual biography of the Remonstrant preachers Samuel Naeranus (1582-1641) and Johannes Naeranus (1608-1679). He published mainly on the interaction between the Remonstrants and the Polish Brethren in the seventeenth century, and took part in compiling Bibliographia Sociniana. A Bibliographical Reference Tool for the Study of Dutch Socinianism and Antitrinitarianism (Hilversum, 2004). (Westindische Kade 287, 9715 TP Groningen, The Netherlands – sibbe.jan.visser@hetnet.nl)

Mr. Egbert Wolleswinkel is secretary of the Dutch Supreme Council of Nobility. He publishes on art history, genealogy and heraldry. (Hoge Raad van Adel, Nassaulaan 2-b, 2514 JS Den Haag, The Netherlands – wolleswinkel@hogeraadvanadel.nl)