

About the authors

Drs. Redmer Alma studied mathematics and history at the University of Groningen and now works for the Drents Archief. (Drents Archief, P.O. BOX 595, 9400 AN Assen, The Netherlands – redmer.alma@drentsarchief.nl)

Martin van den Broeke studied Dutch law at Erasmus University Rotterdam and European Legal Studies at the University of Leeds (UK). He is currently preparing a Ph.D. thesis at the Centre for Landscape Studies at the University of Groningen. His research focuses on the aspects of distinction, economy and pleasure of country houses on the island of Walcheren 1580-1870. Previously he published Jan Arends. Buitenplaatsen op Walcheren, together with H.W.M. van der Wijck, Het Arkadisch Walcheren getekend door Jan Arends 1770-1790. (Centre for Landscape Studies, University of Groningen, Oude Boteringestraat 34, 9712 GK Groningen, The Netherlands – martinvdb@live.nl)

Dr. Paul Brusse is historian at the Research Institute for History and Culture of the Utrecht University in the Netherlands. He has written several books and articles about regional economic developments between the seventeenth and twenty first centuries in this country. He is among others editor in chief of the new four-volume work about the history of the Dutch province of Zeeland. (Research Institute for History and Culture, Utrecht University, Janskerkhof 13, 3512 BL Utrecht, The Netherlands – p.brusse@uu.nl)

Prof. dr. David Crouch has occupied a chair in medieval history in the University of Hull since 2000 and published widely on English, French and Welsh medieval society and politics, 1000-1300. His most recent relevant major publications are: The Birth of Nobility. Constructing Aristocracy in England and France, 950-1300 (2005); The English Aristocracy, 1070-1272. A Social Transformation (2011). He is currently working on the medieval volume (1000-1500) of the Cambridge History of Britain. (University of Hull, Department of History, Hull HU6 7RX, United Kingdom – d.crouch@hull.ac.uk)

Dr. Piet van Cruyningen is researcher at Huygens Institute for the History of the Netherlands, The Hague, and the Rural and Environmental History Group of Wageningen University. His research concerns the rural history of Western Europe in the modern and early modern period, special research themes are the history of water management, property relations in Dutch agriculture and the management of landed estates. (Wageningen University & Research Centre, PO BOX 8130, 6700 EW Wageningen, The Netherlands – piet.vancruyningen@wur.nl)

Prof. dr. Jaap Dronkers is now Professor in international comparative research on educational performance and social inequality at Maastricht University. He has published on the causes and consequences of unequal educational and occupational attainment, changes in educational opportunities, effect-differences between public and religious schools, the educational and occupational achievement of migrants from different origins and in various countries of destination, the linkages between school and the labour market, the effects of parental divorce on children, cross-national differences in causes of divorce, education of Dutch elites, and European nobility. He also participates in public debates on topics related to his research. (ROA, Maastricht University, Tongersestraat 53, 6211 LM Maastricht, The Netherlands – j.dronkers@maastrichtuniversity.nl)

Prof. dr. Jeroen Duindam teaches history at Leiden University. Duindam studies rulership and elites in the early modern world and currently prepares a new book on Dynasty in global history 1300-1800. (Leiden University Institute for History, Doelensteeg 16, 2311 VL Leiden, The Netherlands – j.f.j.duindam@hum.leidenuniv.nl)

Dr. Jan Hein Furnée is lecturer in cultural history at the University of Amsterdam and professor in history at the Open University of The Netherlands. His research focuses on nineteenth-century urban leisure culture, consumption culture, social relations and cultural policy. Recently he published: Plaatsen van beschaafd vertier. Standsbesef en stedelijke cultuur, Den Haag 1850-1890 (2012). (Faculty of Humanities, University of Amsterdam, Spuistraat 134, 1012 VB Amsterdam, The Netherlands – w.j.h.furnee@uva.nl)

Jaap Geraerts completed a research M.A. in History at Utrecht University and is currently a Ph.D.-student at University College London focusing on the Catholic nobility, mainly in the province of Utrecht in the seventeenth century. (Stellingmolen 29, 3995 AT Houten, The Netherlands – jaap.geraerts.09@ucl.ac.uk)

Dr. Conrad Gietman studied early modern history at Utrecht University. Currently, he is working as a researcher at the Dutch Council of Nobility and as an editor at the Centraal Bureau voor Genealogie in The Hague. His dissertation Republiek van adel. Eer in de Oost-Nederlandse adelscultuur (1555-1702) was published in 2010. (Hoge Raad van Adel, Nassaulaan 2-b, 2514 JS Den Haag, The Netherlands – gietman@hogeraadvanadel.nl)

Michaël Green is a fellow of the Foundation for Interreligious and Intercultural Research and Dialogue, University of Geneva. For his doctoral dissertation he conducted research on the Huguenot scholar, educator and civil servant Jean Rou (1638-1711) at the Faculty of Theology and Religious Studies, University of Groningen. His research interests include cultural, social and intellectual history, history of education and religious minorities. (Rue Jean-Charles Amat 22, 1202 Geneva, Switzerland – greenmi1@etu.unige.ch)

Prof. dr. Yme Kuiper is professor of Historical Anthropology and Anthropology of Religion (Faculty of Theology and Religious Studies) at the University of Groningen. Since September 2012 he is also professor at the Faculty of Arts of the same university with the chair Country Houses and Landed Estates. (University of Groningen, Oude Boteringestraat 38, 9712 GK Groningen, The Netherlands – y.b.kuiper@rug.nl)

Prof. dr. Wijnand W. Mijnhardt holds a personal Chair of Comparative History of the Sciences and the Humanities, and he is director of the Descartes Centre for the History and Philosophy of the Sciences at Utrecht University. With Joost Kloek, he authored 1800, Blueprints for a National Community (2005). Together with Paul Brusse he authored: Towards a New Template for Dutch history. De-urbanization and the balance between city and countryside (2011). In preparation is An Urban Enlightenment: the Dutch Republic 1640-1815. (Utrecht University, Janskerkhof 13, 3512 BL Utrecht, The Netherlands – w.w.mijnhardt@uu.nl)

Prof. dr. Harm von Seggern studied medieval and modern history, geography and ancient history in Kiel and Trier. He received his Ph.D. degree in 1999, became a postdoctoral researcher in 2006 and was Associate Professor from 2008 until 2012. His areas of interest include medieval history, social and economic history of the Late Middle Ages (in particular Hanseatic trade), communication and media history, history of The Netherlands and methodological problems of historical science. (Historisches Seminar, Christian-Albrechts-Universität, Leibnizstraße 3, D-24098 Kiel, Deutschland – hvonnseggern@email.uni-kiel.de)

Dr. Vincent Sleebe studied socio-economic history in Nijmegen and received his Ph.D. degree at the University of Groningen with a thesis on social control and criminality in nineteenth-century Groningen. He was also involved in various urban histories. Currently, he is relation manager at Historisch Centrum Overijssel (Zwolle) and works as a freelance historian. (Historisch Centrum Overijssel, Eikenstraat 20, 8021 WX Zwolle, The Netherlands—v.sleebe@historischcentrumoverijssel.nl)

Dr. Arie van Steensel is a postdoctoral researcher at Utrecht University. He is the author of Edelen in Zeeland. Macht, rijkdom en status in een laatmiddeleeuwse samenleving (Hilversum, 2010). (Research Institute for History and Culture, Utrecht University, Drift 6, 3512 BS Utrecht, The Netherlands—a.vansteensel@uu.nl)

Dr. Pieter Stokvis was until 2010 senior lecturer of cultural history at the Open University of The Netherlands. He published books on Dutch emigration to America, the city and population of The Hague and the history of private life in the nineteenth and twentieth century. (Zeemanlaan 36, 2313 SZ Leiden, The Netherlands—pst36@worldonline.nl)

Simon Unger is graduate student of social and economic history at the University of Oxford, Brasenose College. (Brasenose College, Oxford OX1 4AJ, United Kingdom—simon.unger@bnc.ox.ac.uk)

Prof. dr. Nicholas Vincent is Professor of Medieval History at the University of East Anglia and a Fellow of the British Academy. He has published widely on the history of the Anglo-French world of the twelfth and thirteenth centuries. (University of East Anglia, School of History, Norwich NR4 7TJ, United Kingdom—n.vincent@uea.ac.uk)

Prof. dr. Jan de Vries holds the Sidney Hellman Ehrman Chair in History and Economics at the University of California at Berkeley. He has published on many aspects of the economic history of early modern Europe, with a special interest in the Dutch Republic. His recent publications include: The Industrious Revolution (2008) and 'The Limits of Globalization in the Early Modern World', Economic History Review, LXIII (2010) 710-733. (Department of History, University of California at Berkeley, Berkeley, CA 94720-2550, USA—devries@berkeley.edu)

Dr. Ellis Wasson is adjunct professor of history at the University of Delaware and holder of the History Teaching Chair at Tower Hill School in Wilmington, DE. He received his Ph.D. from Cambridge. Among his publications are Born to Rule: British Political Elites (2000), Aristocracy and the Modern World (2006), and A History of Modern Britain: 1714 to the Present (2010). (Tower Hill School, 2813 West 17th Street, Wilmington, DE, 19806, USA—ewasson@udel.edu)

Dr. Paul de Win, Ph.D. in Legal History (Ghent) and Master in Medieval History (Ghent), is secretary to the Belgian Council of Nobility. He has published on the Burgundian nobility and medieval criminal law. (Sint-Janstraat 8 D 101, 2800 Mechelen, Belgium—paul.de.win@skynet.be)